Through panels, workshops, and networking, the virtual conference will highlight the life and legacy of Dr. King in these challenging times, through sessions on “Justice Matters,” “Health Equity Matters,” and “How to Live Your Ideals through Service and Public Policy.” Secretary of State Tahesha Way will lead a session on “Dr. King’s Global Impact” with the Consul-General of India and Ambassador from Ghana, nations that Dr. King visited.

Young people will service as Conference Moderators and panelists.

Students can register via <https://hopin.com/events/njmlkyouth>

When on the conference page, the registration button will be on the top right hand side. It is a blue button that states "Join Event". Once registered, you will be able to receive reminders and additional information for the event.

Reserve your spot and Register Today!

We encourage you to please share the Youth Conference information, on social media, through your networks, and to your constituents.
